

Along the green street / looking East

Reflection Site

Bruksstaden in Bloom

Inspired by the principles of permaculture, this project embraces the existing character of the site rather than working against it. This means carefully studying the existing structures, streets, and greenery to breathe new life into the district. New courtyards are created by integrating existing structures; new streets bend to respect the site's conditions; and new trees, gardens, and green spaces complement those already in place.